Providing formal, supervised training for students to qualify for umpire positions in professional, college, high school, independent professional, and youth baseball.

To My Fellow Umpire and Potential Student:

I want to take a moment to thank you for your interest in attending our school. We have prepared more umpires to move into professional baseball, and more umpires to move into the Major Leagues, than all other programs in history, combined! I am very happy to hear that you are interested in becoming one of our next success stories. Whether your aspirations in umpiring are to become a Big League umpire, or just to improve your skills at the amateur level, our training program is designed for you.

Our program was designed to accommodate students at every experience level. We employ comprehensive training methods, designed to instruct and evaluate umpires in every area of umpiring. Students are put through drills regularly in order to emphasize the proper mechanics and positioning through repetition. Students are also sent through the cages on a constant basis in order to develop consistent and accurate strike zones. We put our students through control situations, with an instructor holding the bat and setting up specific plays and situations in every area of the game. Our students will also participate in camp games, played and umpired by the students. However, we are the only umpire training program that includes live games, played by high school and college teams, in the curriculum. This not only offers live game, real time experience on the field, but also better prepares our students for the PBUC placement camp. This ten-day camp is held to determine league and level our students will begin their careers in, and where students are evaluated solely on the performance during live games. Offering students the experience of live games during their training best prepares them for gaining higher placement at the placement course.

Our training methods aren't the only thing that sets us apart. Our staff is comprised of umpires from every area of professional baseball. It is a staff comprised of both experienced Major League umpires and umpires from every level of Minor League Baseball. Because your first years in the game will be in the Minor Leagues, it is important to have instructors who were recently in your position. But because your ultimate goal is to reach the Major Leagues, we also provide a number of Major League umpires on staff. They can offer you the experience and instruction necessary to move to the highest level. No other program provides the number of Major League umpires on staff that I do.

Again, I want to thank you for the time you've taken to explore what our program has to offer you, and look forward to providing you with an amazing experience at the Harry Wendelstedt School for Umpires. If there is anything that my staff or I can help you with, please do not hesitate to contact us at 1-800-818-1690. You may also reach us at admin@umpireschool.com.

Sincerely,

School History and Introduction

The Harry Wendelstedt School for Umpires has been in existence since the mid-1930's, changed from the Al Somers Umpire School in 1977. Harry Wendelstedt owned and operated the school from 1975 until his death in 2012. Harry Wendelstedt was trained by Al Somers and served as Chief Instructor at the Al Somers Umpire School for seventeen years. Wendelstedt was regarded by baseball people as one of the games most competent officials in history and won worldwide acclaim for his work in five World Series, five All Star Games and eleven Championship playoffs. He was honored by the nations top sports banquets five times as the Major Leagues top umpire. He served four terms as President of the Major League Umpire Association. Among his honors, Sports Illustrated released a poll of major league ball players naming Harry Wendelstedt the best ball and strike umpire in the National League, and the best rated umpire several times by a Major League Baseball poll. Harry was presented with many prestigious honors from the city where he resided, including the naming of The Ormond Beach Sports Complex to the newly named Harry H. Wendelstedt, Jr. Sports Complex. His good friend and baseball writer, Dr. John McCollister, recently nominated Harry for induction into the Baseball Hall of Fame. His nomination was seconded by Hall of Fame manager and lifelong friend (and sometimes on field combatant), Tommy LaSorda. In 1998 Wendelstedt retired after 33 years as a National league umpire. He dedicated himself to professional and amateur umpire training until his death.

His son and current Major League veteran, Harry Wendelstedt, III (Hunter), has since taken the reins of the program, and continues the long tradition of training and promoting umpires for placement in professional baseball. Following in his father's footsteps, Hunter is regarded as a highly qualified umpire and educator. Outside of his training during the Professional Baseball Umpiring Course, he travels around the country during the off-season to host local amateur clinics all over the world.

Course Composition

The course in Professional Baseball Umpiring by the Harry Wendelstedt Umpire School consists of a number of courses that are composed of 245 total hours of instruction and evaluation. They are outlined below. An accumulative score on the written testing of the course is expected to be a minimum "C" (or 70%) (or 2.0) in order to qualify for a position in professional baseball, and an overall GPA of 2.0. This score, however, is not required in order to successfully complete the course with other recommendations.

Student Services – Placement

Although placement assistance may be offered, the institution does not guarantee employment implied or indirectly implied. Upon successful completion of the course, students will be advised on their progress throughout the course, and final standing within the class. Assignment and placement details will be discussed at this time. A number of students will be sent for placement in professional baseball (usually between 25 and 35). Many will be afforded positions in independent professional and college leagues all over the country. Several of these independent and college leagues have exclusive agreements with our program regarding the placement of their umpires. Generally, 70% of our enrolled students are recommend for professional positions; much higher than all other similar institutions. In addition, nearly all of our remaining students are placed for positions in amateur baseball when they return home.

Satisfactory Academic Progress and Retention Policy – Credential Awarded

Students will be provided regular verbal progress reports regarding their strengths and deficiencies throughout the course. Additionally, students will receive one-on-one video reviews of their cage (plate) work. Upon completion of the course, students will receive a face-to-face final evaluation of their work, as well as a report card identifying their letter grades in each of the grade criterion.

A diploma will be provided to every student that completes the course in Good Standing. In order to remain in "Good Standing" with the program, students must continue to show satisfactory progress in the judgment of the Wendelstedt staff, regardless of their status throughout the course. This policy is put in place with the understanding that umpire school students progress at different rates based on previous experience, physical abilities, and training methods. A student's enrollment can be terminated at the discretion of the institution for insufficient academic progress, non-payment of academic costs, or failure to comply with rules and policies established by the institution as outlined in the catalog and this agreement.

The Wendelstedt Umpire School may impose discipline, including dismissal, for the commission or attempted commission (including aiding or abetting in the commission or attempted commission) of the following types of violations by students, as well as other such violations of reasonable conduct for an academic setting. These include, but are not limited to:

- All forms of academic misconduct including but not limited to cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, or facilitating academic dishonesty.
- Other forms of dishonesty including but not limited to fabricating information, furnishing false information, or reporting a false emergency to the school.
- Forgery, alteration, or misuse of any school document, record, key, electronic device, or identification.
- Theft of, conversion of, destruction of, or damage to any property of the school or its occupied premises, or any property of others while on school premises, or possession of any property when the student had knowledge or reasonably should have had knowledge that it was stolen.

Any student dismissed for these reasons shall be afforded a refund in accordance with the refund schedule. An appeal may be afforded to a dismissed student, and such appeal may be reviewed the governing board. Any request for appeal of academic or disciplinary actions, or any complaints regarding any facet of the school must be made in writing to the President or Vice-President of the school, at the school's published mailing address within 30 days from the taken action. (See Complaints and Grievances [p. 6])

If a student is dismissed for not remaining in "Good Standing" due to the lack of satisfactory academic progress, they may re-apply to the program on a probationary basis for the term following that term in which the student was dismissed. Full tuition, including another registration fee, is due in order to re-enroll in subsequent terms.

Sufficient student attendance is required to successfully complete the course for graduation. While extended effort will be made for students to make up missed course material and testing during absences, a student who is determined to have missed 50% of scheduled courses will be dismissed for failure to remain in "Good Standing" as outlined in this catalog.

2. Harry Wendelstedt has trained more Major League Umpires than all of the other umpire instructors. More than 275 former students worked the 1989 through 2014 World Series, Major League Playoffs, and the All Star Games. We are happy to report that 8 of our 15 CURRENT MINOR LEAGUE STAFF MEMBERS were selected to work Major League games this year. No other program can show you the ultimate success rate of students reaching the Major Leagues that we can provide!
3. At our school, you will be trained by some of the top umpires in baseball. Major League umpiring greats like Dana DeMuth, Jerry Layne, Bob Davidson, Doug Eddings, Ron Kulpa, Sam Holbrook, Paul Nauert, Brian Runge, Greg Gibson, Hunter Wendelstedt, Larry Vanover, and Eddie Hickox join Harry in compiling the most experienced Major League staff ever. Because your first few years will be in the Minor Leagues, we are also staffed with many umpires from every level of Minor League baseball. This school guarantees a wide realm of training from all experience levels.
4. We have an excellent umpire training staff! 31 instructors, 14 Major League umpires. No other school can boast staff numbers that has reached the top levels of professional baseball.
5. We are the #1 attended professional umpire school in the United States and we're proud of our record. Perhaps you will be another of our Big League products. Join us today!

Whenever Major League Umpires send their close one's to an umpire school for the instruction, they send them our way. Some examples include:

Tim Welke	Frank Pulli	Drew Coble
Ed Montegue	Ed, Paul, and Brian Runge	Marvin Hudson
Larry Young	Ed Rapuano	Shag and Jerry Crawford
John and Mark Hirschbeck	Jeff Kellogg	Mike Reilly
Gary Cederstrom	Tom and Brian Gorman	Rich Garcia

Current Major League Supervisors Cris Jones, Rich Reiker, Charlie Reliford, Randy Marsh, and Bruce Froemming were all long-time instructors with the Wendelstedt School before their promotions as supervisors, and will be the people that determine your placement into the Major Leagues.

When they want their friends and family to receive umpire instruction, they send them to our school . . . The Harry Wendelstedt School for Umpires!

Experienced...

Our staff includes some of the most experienced MLB umpires in baseball. It is composed of World Series, Playoffs, and All-Star Game umpires. Our owner is a veteran Major League Umpire who has trained thousands of professional and amateur umpires all over the world.

Recognized...

We have trained umpires from all over the world, and the countries on that list continue to grow. The first name in umpire education is Wendelstedt, and that is due to our record of developing successful umpires.

Sought After...

When the best of the best in the Major Leagues send close ones to umpire school, they send them to us.

Successful...

Our students routinely reach higher placements in professional baseball, and the number of former students receiving full-time Major League positions blow our competition away! Many schools have formed and dissolved in our school's history, and we credit this to our staff, our instructional methods, and, mostly, our success!

F.A.Q.'s

I have never umpired before. Do I need experience before I come to school?

No. We assume that when you arrive, you have no umpiring knowledge or experience. Regardless of your experience level, we start everyone from the basics on the first day. Often times, extensive experience can lead to established bad habits that must be broken first. With limited, or no, experience, you will not have these bad habits to break before learning the "Wendelstedt Way."

How big is your class?

Our class size varies from year to year. Though our class size usually remains around 100 students, we will not know our class size until January 2 because some enrolled students are unable to report for various reasons, and some students register the last couple of days before the start of school. However, approximately 10%-15% of the students in attendance are looking to gain additional experience to further their amateur umpiring careers, and are not looking for positions in professional baseball.

What is your student to instructor ratio?

The ratio varies based on class size, however, we have 30 staff members, 14 of them Major League umpires. We usually have about 100 students attend every year.

How many jobs are available?

We are provided with the number of placements available on the first of February. This number usually ranges between 25 and 35, and we also send an additional 10 on a reserve list. These students are selected throughout the year as positions become available due to injury and retirements.

What are the requirements to attend umpire school?

You must be at least 18 years old to attend umpire school. Candidates must be in adequate physical condition, and must submit a copy of medical professional's release for participation and/or a note of indication of good health. Proof of High School Diploma or GED is required for placement in professional baseball positions. Our job is to provide professional baseball with the best possible candidates. When you leave our school, you leave with our label. We place the best students, regardless of age, gender, race, or any other factors. We strive to keep the reputation of providing the best possible product on the field. If you are a top student, we want you to represent the Wendelstedt School.

What separates your program from others?

Though all of the professional umpire programs will offer you the same material as mandated by professional baseball, our school offers you an excellent opportunity to excel in baseball through our unique presentation and exclusive teaching methods. One of the most important of these is through the use of live games, played by high school and college teams. We are the only program that provides you with this opportunity. And since your placement at the PBUC placement camp is determined on your performance during live games, this provides our students with a head-start to real game situations. The results are proved through our wonderful success over the years. Our school also provides a terrific facility, location, experienced staff, and most importantly, results!
